"Citius. Altius. Fortius"

"Faster. Higher. Stronger" - the motto proposed by Pierre Coubertin for the first Olympics in 1894 and still prevailing today.

In keeping with this motto, we at TBI, have set the bar with our high standards of professionalism and ethics; these have been acknowledged by the industry worldwide and recognized by international bodies and the Ministry of Tourism, resulting in being the recipient of several National and International Tourism Awards.

Privileged to be a member of the fourth generation established in this industry, I have been fortunate to have witnessed the steady growth, and progressive realization of the goals and objectives of our organization.

We cannot seek achievement merely for ourselves.

Our ambitions must be broad enough to include the aspirations and needs of our clients, employees and partners.

The understanding of the market, the ground realities coupled with our matchless client care, all backed by a highly skillful team of dedicated professionals, has enabled us to position ourselves as a destination management company of choice, providing a stimulus to the discerning traveler visiting the Indian subcontinent.

EXOTIC GOA

HIGHLIGHTS

A place outside time...a tiny emerald speck on the west coast of India, tucked away snugly between the hills of the Western Ghats and the Arabian Sea, Goa has a warm, tropical climate with an average temperature of 21°C (79°F) throughout the year. The winter months December to February are delightfully cool and sunny, and from June to September, Goa is drenched by the southwest monsoon, which turns the countryside into a lush garden. The landscape is covered with paddy fields and groves of cashew, mango and coconut. Strung along the 100 km. coastline are stretches of beaches the colour of sand changing every few kilometres.

Beaches of Goa

Goa beaches are distinctively divided between North & South.

North Goa - The party animals will be delighted visiting Baga, Vagator, Anjuna and Calangute beaches for sure. Enjoy the local atmosphere at pubs, bars, restaurants, street food and various water sports activities at the popular beaches of North Goa.

South Goa - Unlike the beaches of North Goa, you can relax at the quiet and pristine beaches of the south. Some of the well-known beaches are Colva, Majorda, Cavelossim and Palolem.

Goa should not be defined by beaches alone. In addition to the beaches Goa also offers World Heritage sites in Old Goa, beautiful Hindu temples and tropical spice plantations.

Churches of Old Goa & Panjim City

Old Goa or Velha Goa in Portuguese is a world heritage site that boasts of more than 13 churches. The most important being Basilica of Bom Jesus famous in the Roman Catholic world since it contains the tomb and mortal remains of St. Francis Xavier. Other prominent churches include the Se Cathedral (the seat of the Archbishop of Goa), the Church of St. Francis of Assisi, the Church of St. Cajetan considered to have been modelled on the St. Peter's Basilica in Vatican City.

Panaji, the capital city of Goa is located on the banks of the Mandovi river. Terraced hills, concrete buildings with balconies and red tiled roofs, churches and riverside promenade form this city. Colourful villas, cobbled streets make it an interesting walk through the Latin quarters with its Portuguese ambience.

Temples & Spices

The temples of Goa are in essence like most Hindu temples in India, based around a deity which is worshipped. The architecture of Goa temples is a little different mostly because these are second homes to most deities that were re-established outside of Portuguese controlled areas during the early days of Portuguese invasion and the dreaded Inquisition. Most visited temples of Goa are Sri Shanta Durga dedicated to Goddess Durga, Mangueshi & Nagueshi, both dedicated to Lord Shiva.

A visit to one of the many spice plantations will put your sensory organs to test for sure. India is a country that is popularly known as the 'land of spices' and, Goa too is blessed with this speciality. A walk through the plantation followed by locally cooked lunch will be an absolute delight for those wanting to spend some calm time away from the chaos of the city.

YOGA & AYURVEDA

Yoga

Yoga is the physical, mental, and spiritual practices or disciplines that aim to transform body and mind. The term denotes a variety of schools, practices and goals in Hinduism, Buddhism, Tibetan Buddhism and Jainism, the best-known being Hatha yoga and Raja yoga. The term yoga is derived from the literal meaning of “yoking together” a span of horses or oxen, but came to be applied to the “yoking” of mind and body.

The origins of Yoga have been speculated to date back to pre-vedic Indian traditions, but most likely developed around the sixth and fifth centuries BC. The earliest accounts of yoga-practices are in the Buddhist Nikayas. Yoga gurus from India later introduced yoga to the west, following the success of Swami Vivekananda in the late 19th and early 20th century. In the 1980s, yoga became popular as a system of physical exercise across the Western world. This form of yoga is often called Hatha yoga.

Being the centre of origin of Yoga India offers a host of opportunities to learn the disciplines of yoga. Yoga Retreats in North India are located close to Rishikesh along the banks of River Ganges. Combination of Yoga and Ayurveda is available in the Southern state of Kerala.

Ayurveda

Ayurveda or Ayurvedic medicine a system of Hindu traditional medicine, is native to the Indian subcontinent, and is a form of alternative medicine. The oldest known Ayurvedic texts are the Suśruta Samhitā and the Charaka Samhitā.

These Classical Sanskrit texts are among the foundational and formally compiled works of Ayurveda. By the medieval period, Ayurvedic practitioners developed a number of medicinal preparations and surgical procedures for the treatment of various ailments. Practices that are derived from Ayurvedic medicine are regarded as part of complementary and alternative medicine and along with Siddha Medicine and Traditional Chinese medicine. Ayurveda is well integrated into the Indian National health care system, with state hospitals for Ayurveda established across the country.

Kerala, the Land of Ayurveda

Kerala possesses an unbroken tradition of Ayurveda that has surpassed the many invasions and intrusions both foreign and native. For hundreds of years the Ayurveda Vaidyas (traditional practitioners of Ayurveda) were almost the only access for people seeking healing from every kind of disease in Kerala.

Being the only available line of treatment for the people, the Vaidyars of Kerala were challenged to interpret the theories of Ayurveda and adapt them actively into effective healing systems in everyday life. Thus almost all the contemporary procedures and protocols of Ayurveda have evolved in and around Kerala.

LUXURY TRAINS

The first railway in India was inaugurated more than 160 years ago. Since then, the railway network has grown to be among the largest in the world, running more than 12000 passenger trains per day ferrying close to 25 million passengers daily.

Train journeys have always intrigued the travellers. Journeys traversing through varying terrains, offering glimpses of the landscapes, have captured the fancy of many.

Palace on Wheels, Maharaja Express, Deccan Odyssey and the Golden Chariot are 4 trains that attempt to recreate the journeys undertaken by Indian Royalty and British aristocracy in the luxury of their private saloons, tended by butlers enjoying the cuisines from royal kitchens. The trains have lavish interiors, en-suite facilities and offer all amenities of a luxury hotel.

The trains offer various routes covering different states of India and showcasing the most important heritage sites along with national parks and beach destinations such as Goa. The programs vary from 3 to 7 nights.

RIVER CRUISES & CYCLING IN INDIA

River cruising in India

It is possible to cruise for some 1750 miles on the rivers and inland waterways of India, passing through great cities, alongside wildlife sanctuaries and historical monuments and into the heart of rural India.

Recently cruising on rivers such as Ganges and Brahmaputra have gained popularity with international tourists. Facilities on these river boats include all amenities offered by a hotel.

Ganges cruise includes Kolkata, Kalina, Plassey for the battle of Plassey, Murshidabad, the capital of Nawabs, Farrakka barrage, Gaur the first Islamic capital of Bengal, Raj Maha, Monghyr, Patna and finally Varanasi one of the oldest continuously inhabited cities of the world.

Cycling in India

Cycling helps maintain fitness levels. When done as a mode of exploring a destination, it adds a fun element to staying fit. India with its extensive network of roads at various altitudes and terrains can offer some amazing routes. The visually stimulating and physically challenging experience will be hard to forget. Be it casual cycling or hardcore, the Indian landscape has something for everyone. Popular places in India for cycling are:

Manali to Leh: A favourite with hardcore enthusiasts this route involves days of intensive cycling that is rewarded by visual treat on the mountainous Leh-Manali Highway. One crosses four high mountain passes, expansive plains, a series of hairpin bends and various streams. The north-eastern states of India have some of the most magnificent and awe-inspiring landscapes in the country:

Meghalaya offers lush groves, meadows and jungles, the highlight being Cherrapunjee the wettest place on earth until a few years ago. This area is ideal for cycling and trekking.

Sikkim offers a leisurely ride on curved mountain roads and simultaneously see picturesque landscapes, past the centuries-old monasteries, and the snow-capped mountains in the region.

Rajasthan with its flat terrain and deserts is ideal for easy cycling. Places such as Bharatpur, Karauli, Kanota offer leisurely cycling opportunities through local villages, deserts as you visit forts, palaces and national parks.

Delhi the capital of India is full of historical monuments, ruins and narrow lanes of the old city and one can have enriching cycling experience in Old and New Delhi
